

Early Career Researcher Day at ICME-13

ICME-13 is pleased to offer a special activity for early career researchers who are attending ICME-13. The Early Career Researcher Day will directly precede the main ICME-13 conference.

The aim of this day is to provide early career researchers with opportunities to develop their research competencies in various fields, establish new contacts, building networks among themselves and meet and work with international experts in the field.

It will be held on Sunday, 24th July 2016 at the Faculty of Education of the University of Hamburg (Von-Melle-Park 8, 20146 Hamburg).

Early career researchers, attending ICME-13, are welcome to participate in this day. The additional fee of 50 Euro will include lunch and coffee breaks.

In order to register for the Early Career Researcher Day, you need to go to <https://www.conftool.pro/icme13/> , where you choose to participate both at the ICME 13 conference and the Early Career Researcher Day.

For the participants of the Early Career Researcher Day the Check-in for ICME-13 in Hamburg will be organised separately with a temporary congress office ; the precise location of this congress office will be announced later.

Participants of this activity are recommended to arrive in Hamburg on or before 23rd July 2016, since a social programme on the evening of 23rd July 2016 is planned to provide opportunities for informal exchanges and networking.

Programme: http://icme13.org/early_career_researcher_day/programme